Dear Mr. Weisberg,

Thanks for the books, a money order is enclosed. I'd like to start reading them right now, but I'm going to have to wait until after my mid-term exams.

I wish I could take you up on the opportunity to do research for Jim Lesar, but I haven't started law school yet and so I don't yet have access to a law library. I won't be starting law school for another year, because I took advantage of an opportunity to do graduate work in Political Rhetoric under a man who is probably the country's leading authority on political rhetoric and campaign strategy. However, I still intend to go to law school, so maybe I can be of some help in the future. In the meantime, if there is anything with which I can help you or Mr. Lesar I'd be very willing.

Two weeks ago, a young man gave a lecture on my campus entitled "Who Killed JFK." He had been at one of the other nearby colleges before, but I wasn't able to be present then. He dealt mainly with the JFK assassination, but also showed very convincing evidence linking the assassination of Kennedy to that of Martin Luther King Jr, and possibly the other political assassinations and attempted assassinations in the past decade. I have only had a chance to scan Frame - Up, but it's obvious that he based much of his lecture on that book and the Whitewash books. I was already familiar with most of what he discussed, but he did show several photos and films which I had never seen. The high point of the lecture, for me at least, was the screening of the Zapruder film. Although I have all of the frames of the film in black and white photos, I had never seen it as a color movie before. As many times as I've studied those pictures, I still was dumbfounded when I saw the film. Even those few people in the audience, who prior to seeing the film tended to agree with the Warren Report, either left totally convinced of a conspiracy or at least with the seeds of doubt planted in their minds.

I stayed after the lecture to talk with the guy, and he told me of a congressman, whose name I can't remember, who plans to introduce a bill this Spring to have the Kennedy investigation reopened. I was wondering if you were aware of this and if you knew how much of a chance he has of getting the necessary support?

While we were talking, I told him that I would give anything to get my hands on a copy of the Zapruder film, so he gave me the name of a company in Massachusetts that sells bootleg copies. I wrote for some information and found that I could get a copy for $15. I sent my order in at the same time as this letter, so I should have my own Zapruder film pretty soon.

When you get the time, I'd really appreciate it if you would send me Jim Lesar's address, so that when I finish reading Frame - Up I can get a copy of the habeas corpus petition. I'd be very happy to pay any costs to him.

Once again, thanks for all your help. I sincerely wish both you and Mr. Lesar the best of luck in the upcoming evidentiary hearing. Don't hesitate to ask if there's anything you think I might be able to help with.

Sincerely yours,

Karen Sable
